Good grief - we've survived another year of hectic card releases, deadline panics, printing hassles and yes, even the office Christmas party (OK, so we celebrated early). Before we have a few days off for Christmas, we've put together what we hope you think will make a great holiday read with lots of chances to win some excellent prizes - thanks to all those great people at Futera, Card Crazy Authentics, Festival, Steve Wright Marketing and Leisuretime who supplied them.

If you've ever wondered what kind of collectors we are, Dempsey has put together all the collectibles the Card Crazy contributors would most like to find in our Christmas stockings. Flip side gives you some NBA trivia to mull over, and the main event of the season, the Marvel/DC Showdown (and you thought it was Christmas dinner with your relatives) is analysed by our Intrepid Fanboy.

See you in the new year - don't break those resolutions 'til then!

WILDCATS FANS GO WILD

Dear Card Crazy,
I am writing this letter in regard to the report on the McDonalds Championship in your Ocober '95 edition.
I thought it was great you telling your readers, in particular, basketball fans how all the international teams made it into the McDonald's Championships by explaining how and who they beat in their local league.
The first two pages of this report were great, that was until I turned to the next three pages which included NBL players thoughts from various clubs from around the league. To my surprise, anger and DISGUST I found not one Wildcat player included.
My question to you at Card Crazy and in particular Mark Hawthorn is why three Melbourne based players where included, an only two non-Melbourne based players? Which you already know were not from the WILDCATS ANY-WAY!
What I can't work out is why you would not include a Wildcat e.g. Vlahov, considering they did win the pre-season and minor premiership. Knowing all that you must have known the Wildcats would have a pretty good chance to make it to the Big Mac Tournament. But knowing how biased you Victorians are I'm not overly surprised.
My advice to you is if you want this magazine to be national, you should include a player from every team that makes it into the NBL play-offs next time.
J. Bush
WA

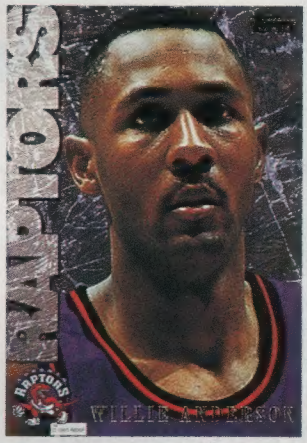
PS - Just after completing this letter of complaint, the PERTH WILDCATS have just beaten Spains Real Madrid in the play-off for third spot in the McDonalds Tournament and received a medal, so what have you got to say about that?!

WA - where's that? Just kidding. Mark spoke to as many people from the championship teams as he could for the article he wrote. I guess the Wildcats were just training too hard. Incidentally, Mark covers the NBL for several magazines, and has recently won the National Basketball League's media award for national coverage of the NBL this season. I guess they didn't think he was too biased. We'll try to cover more of your favourite players next season.

PREDICTOR CARDS?

Dear Card Crazy,
I have just bought the new Card Crazy mag and I liked every page. The Spalding Competition looks awesome. As I was looking though the pages I noticed in the 94-95 Collector's Choice there was a Flair card. I have a Hoops 96-96 Top 10 Grant Hill card and I was wondering if it would go up in price because he has only played 2 years professionally. Please reply as I have written so many times.
Tim Coldstream
NZ

Sorry about that slip up with the Collector's Choice/Flair cards, sometimes these mistakes happen and despite several proof readings, do not get picked up. The answer to your question about Grant Hill is a resounding who knows? Some players who shone in their first few years have gone on to fame and fortune, others have had their careers fizzle out unspectacularly after a few short years. If we all had a crystal ball, we would know which cards to keep and which to sell - but then so would everybody! (See, if you keep writing, we will eventually publish your letters.)



The real 9th pick for Toronto

A GRIZZLY GRUMBLE

Dear Card Crazy
I'm writing to you about a 95/96 Topps card number 175 - Byron Scott of the Vancouver Grizzlies.
It says on the back of the card that he was the ninth pick for "Toronto". this should say "Vancouver the ninth Pick for Toronto is Willie Anderson.
Ben Ashford
NZ

PS is this card worth any more?

This is an error, but no that does not make it worth any more - every single cards number 175 is printed the same. I guess in the USA north of the border all seems the same anyway.

MICHAEL JORDAN ANYONE?

Dear Card Crazy
My name is Dylan Marsh and I collect Michael Jordan. Why is there no Michael Jordan in the Skybox series? I've got twenty two Jordan cards plus one of those twenty three karat gold cards I am trying to get a Jordan from every series so please tell me why.
Dylan Marsh
NZ.

I assume you are talking about the Skybox cards from the 94/95 NBA season. During most of this season Jordan was retired, and therefore could not automatically be used by card companies with an NBA licence. During his retirement he had an exclusive deal with Upper Deck. When he went back to the NBA, the scramble was on for other companies to get Jordan NBA cards into their next set.

AUSSIE MOTORSPORT

Dear Card Crazy
I am writing this letter to let you know that as much as I enjoy reading your magazine and collecting cards, I have found that other than the Australian Formula One Grand Prix there are no cards of Australian Motor-sport of any kind.
I am quite surprised there has been no Group A touring cards, Aus Nascars, Auscars, Thundersports, 2 litre tourers. I am also wanting to now why there is no fast speedway like Speedcars or Sedans. It is poor that card manufactures have not got behind this sort of product.
I hope you reply to my letter with a positive response to my request as I would like to collect these cards.
Thank you.
Trevor Campbell.
WA

Unfortunately it is not just a matter of card companies "getting behind" a particular sport. They must obtain a licence to produce the cards, for which they pay a royalty to the person or company which owns the rights to that subject. With some sports, and car racing is one of them, licences are difficult to secure for a variety of reasons, including drivers contracts with the organisers, difficulties with competing sponsors etc. Even when licences can be secured, it costs a lot of money to produce a card series, so the company must be fairly sure they are going to make a profit. It's a calcualted risk at the best of times, and with the diversity of motor sports, companies might not consider any one series to be profitable enough.

ANOTHER #1 FAN

Dear Card Crazy,
I have a 95/96 Grant Hill Co-Rookie Of The Year. In your last edition (which I have been waiting for a very LONG time) I couldn't find its price. Was it under another name or what? I am very eager to find outs its price as I have a shop wanting to buy it (Don't worry I've read all your card selling tips). Is it the NNO Grant Hill or the All-Rookie team remembered.
Your new NO.1 Fan (Move over Stephen Wan).
M.C. Chambers
1/2 NZ 1/2 NSW

PS Please publish my letter as my stupid printer wouldn't work. (Hey! It worked for Stephen.)

Maybe we should auction off this number one fan position to the highest bidder, we seem to have a few off them! Your card is indeed the NNO Grant Hill card.

All letters received by Card Crazy become the property of the magazine. Due to the volume of mail received, we are unable to reply to letters apart from through this column.

TOYING TRIBULATIONS

Toy Story is this year's holiday release from Disney and it is a full length animated feature film. It is the first entirely computer-generated animated film and took four years to complete. The story revolves around what kids have always dreamed about - their toys coming to life. The two main characters are Woody, a pull-string cowboy doll, and Buzz Lightyear, the latest greatest action figure. Tom Hanks and Tim Allen bring to life Woody and Buzz respectively. This is not the first time characters played by Hanks and Allen have appeared on trading cards. Hanks has appeared on the Apollo 13 movie cards and Allen on the Home Improvement trading cards. Randy Newman is providing another voice - he composed most of the soundtrack songs.

Skybox are bringing out a 54-card series to capture the magic of the film and it contains a few welcome surprises. There are 4 levels of interactive cards - 16 character construction cards that form 3-D images of the 4 main characters, 16 pop-out cards, 4 die-cut double-sided puzzle cards and 8 badge cards each containing tips to the new Toy Story video games. Even better for collectors, there is a total of 16 cards per pack - the largest regular size pack in Skybox history. Insert cards include 3-D transformation cards (1:48) and foil embossed cards (1:18).

Above: One of the sixteen construction cards that make up one of the four main characters.

SUMMER CARD SLAM '96

The promoters estimate around 7,500 people turned out for the inaugural Card Slam last year, so they're hoping for even bigger things this summer. The event is being held at Sydney's Olympic Park on the 19th and 20th of January, where the first 1,500 people through the door each day will receive a free showbag packed with goodies. While there will be plenty of importers and retailers attending, as with last year's Card Slam, there will be the chance to meet top athletes and get your cards signed. The athletes have not been confirmed at press time, but last year included Craig Shipley from the Houston Astros, several Rugby League and baseball internationals and some players from the NBL. Events that attendees can participate in are also being held, such as slam dunk sessions and a baseball/cricket tunnel. Watch out for the card valuation service and don't forget to catch some of the Q&A sessions with industry figures on the Centre Stage. Admission will be $4 for children and $5 for adults.

The Four Hundred and Fifty One Thousand Dollar Man

The giant American retailer Wal-Mart have acquired a 1910 T-206 Honus Wagner baseball card - valued at $US451,000, it is probably the most valuable card in the world. And what are they going to do with it? As part of a promotion in cooperation with the card manufacturers Fleer, Leaf, Skybox, Topps and Upper Deck, they will give the card away to one extremely lucky customer.

Wal-Mart are offering two packs of trading cards for $US1. Each pack contains an entry form to win the Wagner Card. It is hoped that many non-collectors will put down their dollar for the chance to win the Wagner card and in the process they will become interested in trading cards as a hobby.

A few dealers are expected to scream about the promotion, because Wal-Mart could take away their trade in one fell swoop, but Director of Public Relations at Fleer/Skybox, Ted Taylor is more optimistic: "People start going through the packs to find the redemption or insert card, but before long the redemption aspect becomes incidental to the fact that they are enjoying the cards themselves." he said.

The Wagner promotion shouldn't hurt dealers in the meantime because the consumer won't be able to buy anything but the most pedestrian level cards. Once people become more interested in the actual card collecting hobby they will move on to the dealers. "It's not just a Wal-Mart promotion, it's a hobby promotion." said Ted.

The Honus Wagner Cigarette Card was previously owned by Ice Hockey legend Wayne Gretzky, before being bought by Wal-Mart at an auction. There are only about 25 Wagner cards in the world, although no one knows for sure. The reason why there are so few is because they were recalled when Honus protested against having his picture in a cigarette packet. He didn't smoke. No one knew about the dangers of smoking in 1910; was he some sort of a prophet? For $US451,000, he ought to be!

OZCON 5 - RETURN OF THE PLATYPUSS

Once again the massive event that is Ozcon will shortly be upon us, but this year with one fundamenal change - Victorians will be getting a chance to participate. The last four conventions have all been held in Sydney, but with increased interest from all over the country, and a reported attendance of 10,000 in Sydney last year, Ozcon are taking their show on the road to Melbourne the week after the Sydney convention. While it means double the work for organisers and exhibitors, comic and card collectors will thank them for it.

Last year's convention featured visits from overseas comic and trading card artists Dale Keown, Marc Silvestri and Aaron Lopresti, Skybox exec Ken Smith, and our own veteran of many trading cards, Mal Meninga.

Although this year's line-up should be just as exciting, so far organisers aren't at liberty yet to reveal exactly who will be appearing. As always there is a chance for budding artists to develop their skills, and a free showbag for everyone at the door. Ozcon Sydney will be at Hall 5 in the Sydney Exhibition Centre, Darling Harbour on Saturday 10th and Sunday 11th of February. The Melbourne version will be held at the Royal Exhibition Building, Eastern Annex, Nicholson Street, Carlton on Saturday the 17th and Sunday the 18th of February.

ALL BLACKS CARDS BACK IN NZ

Next year's All Blacks Rugby Union trading card licence has been granted to Card Crazy Authentics. The All Blacks licence for 1995 was held by TCC, a Melbourne based cap and clothing specialist, who had it published by Dynamic Marketing. Card Crazy Authentics already has some experience with New Zealand Rugby Union, having launched the Rugby Union Superstars series earlier this year based on the national provincial competition that features both local and international heroes. "We're delighted to add this licence to our stable of New Zealand products" said director Jeffrey Berryman, "when people think of New Zealand sport, they think of the All Blacks, and we think we can make them as proud of the cards as they are of the players."

The All Blacks - not least of all the massive winger Jonah Lomu - garnered a lot of attention this year, both nationally and internationally, so there are no doubt plenty of collectors who will be looking forward to seeing what CCA can do with the season's performance.

FRANKLY MY DEAR...

It had to happen. That epic tale of love, civil war and horse buggys, Gone with the Wind, will be told in a series of trading cards. Gone With the Wind Collector Cards is the first and only fully licensed card series granted by Turner Broadcasting Systems (TBS). Turner owns all the rights to a number of classic films and he controversially released colourised versions of these classics in the eighties much to the dismay of purists. However Gone With the Wind was one of the earliest full-colour feature films and stills from the movie have been faithfully reproduced in this card release. Gone with the Wind featured a blockbuster cast with Clark Gable as Rhett Butler, Vivien Leigh as Scarlett O'Hara and Leslie Howard as Ashley Wilkes.

The cards are being produced by a New York card company, DuoCards. This is their first entry into the collectible trading card market and they are understandably excited by the project. DuoCards President Thomas Breyer is convinced the movie will translate well onto cards, "The sheer quality of the film, from its storyline to its acting, from the grand scenery to the superb production, is sure to shine through to the card series."

The cards come packaged 8 cards per pack 36 packs per box. There are actually 90 cards in the series although looking at the movie (over 3 hours) and the book (over 300 pages) perhaps it should have been 300-cards! There are 6 special "Movie Poster" chromium cards randomly inserted in the series showcasing theatre posters that heralded the opening of the film. The back of these inserts feature a commentary surrounding the gala premiere. The obligatory ring binder folder is also on offer. But the real jewel in DuoCards' crown is their contribution to chase card history - a talking card! You heard it here first, the talking card available through card redemption features the voice of Rhett as he utters that most famous break up line: "Frankly, my dear, I don't give a damn!" Take that you Scarlett witch!

"That reminds me professor, how about we go bowling tonight."

SWISHIN' IN CYBERSPACE

Fire up those Pentiums and rack up those download charges, the NBA is online. Teaming up with Starwave Corporation and ESPN, the NBA has a home page on the Internet via the World Wide Web. For fans and collectors, NBA.com will mean easy access to all the NBA news, scores, statistics and player profiles. Each of the 29 NBA teams has a home page that contains complete game and broadcast schedules, updated rosters, feature articles, and in-depth historical information.

Fans can access the site directly on the web at http://www.nba.com or link through ESPNET SportsZone (http://ESPN.SportsZone.com). For those new to the net, things can seem a little overwhelming at first but there are number of graphical interfaces that are user-friendly and it's as simple as point-and-click.

Once inside NBA.com, you'll be impressed, in the NBA Theatre you'll be able to view "Plays of the Week," listen to audio highlights and flip through up to date photos from the current season. For more historical multimedia there is also an archive of audio and video clips of greatest games, plays and events in the league as well as a whole heap of NBA photos. For an NBA fanatic it's a dream come true!

NBA.com offers an interactive element which is of course one of the most appealing aspects of the net. You can order tickets to games, official merchandise and submit questions to the NBA Inside Stuff and NBA Today shows. But the most exciting development for fans worldwide is that this year fans can cast their votes for the starting lineups for the 1996 All-Star Game via the web. In the future Starwave and ESPN are looking to provide live audio broadcasts of NBA games using the latest internet technology.

NBA Commissioner David Stern sees a parallel connection to the net. "Basketball is one of the world's most dynamic and visual sports, which makes it a perfect match for the internet, the world's most dynamic global communications medium." Despite media concerns about the net, it remains an information highway, albeit a chaotically constructed one. Surfs up!

All I Want

...As told to Card Crazy (IN)"Sanity Clause" Dempsey Malae.

Its Christmas time again and well, this year Granny will no doubt give you some unearthly variation of polka-dot neon socks to go along with that lovely pastel lavender shirt that your Aunty-in-law so graciously bequeathed unto you. We know, we know...it's the thought that counts, right? Even so the staff here at Card Crazy took time off from reminiscing about the safari and deluxe twister jumpsuit pressies that we received last year, to reflect (dream) about what we really want in our Xmas stockings this year.

Our designated hitter from Batter's Box, Klem Ryan had no doubts about what he wanted: "No question - the Topps 1952 baseball set in mint condition." This set of course contains the most popular Mickey Mantle card, #311 which is regarded by some as a rookie card but in fact his real rookie card was released a year earlier by Bowman in 1951. The Topps set also contains other Hall of Fame luminaries such as Yogi Berra and Willie Mays. Asked why the Topps set in particular, our sharing, giving wordsmith replied, "Why wouldn't I want a 1952 Topps set in mint condition." Quite, Klem has been playing baseball since he was a pee-wee leaguer, bats .300 and is right fielder - the same position as Babe Ruth. In no way are we suggesting that Klem resembles the Sultan of Swing...at least not during the active season.

The Intrepid Pundit Steven Shaw delves deep into the hazy daze of an era long since forgotten (the 60's-70's) for his Xmas goodies. "A set of 1975 Six Million Dollar Man cards, because it's the coolest show and if Steve Austin can't fix a problem by bending a steel pole, then the problem simply can't be fixed. And I totally dig his red flares and white belt." Take note fashion victims. Steven (the "normal" non-bionic one) couldn't limit himself to one choice. "If Sanity Clause can't get me that, then a set of Daniel Boone test run cards from Topps 1965 would be bitchin'. After all, he was the rippinest, roaringest, fightingest man the frontier ever knew." Hey its his world, live and let flashback dude.

Our resident Card Guru and part-time standup comic (Don't laugh - its true!) Todd Hanford has just one tiny request. "I wanna be like...I mean, I wanna meet Michael Jordan. Yeah, y'know hang for a while, talk hoops, compare salaries, maybe down a few gatorades." Sure Todd, I think he's got an opening in his schedule for...2.00pm, December 15th, 2021. Seriously though, that would be cool. Knowing Todd to be master of his b-ball domain (his backyard), what about a game of one-on-one with his Airness? "I wouldn't want to play him, but I would like to have a Star 1986 Michael Jordan Set or some other Jordan card besides his rookie because I have that." Showoff, but he is the Card Guru, why wouldn't he have a Jordan RC?

For Christmas...

Above: Chris Clifton in the old days before he worked for Card Crazy.

Publishing assistant Chris Clifton has historical health reasons and, ahem, other concerns when he made up his mind on what he wanted. "I would like the Honus T. Wagner card because he was a man before his time, objecting to appearing on a cigarette card on moral grounds." Wagner of course was a non-smoker and asked to be withdrawn from the series but an unknown number of cards went through hence, their collectibility and value. Are you sure thats all there is to it Chris? "It has absolutely nothing to do with the value of the card ($451,000) or the fact that I could buy a BMW and an awesome sound system with cash and still have lots of money leftover - honest!" Yeah right, anyway we'll forgive Chris for being so materialistic because we've seen the car he drives.

NFL fanatic and Touchdown scribe Matt McNair has no hesitation on what he wants. "I would want the gameball Dwight Clark caught from Joe Montana in the 1981 NFC Championship game against the Dallas Cowboys." With 1:30 on the clock and down 21-27 Montana led a drive upfield that eventually led to "The Catch" and showdown with the Miami in Superbowl XVI. "Montana is one of my sporting heroes and this was really the start of his legendary career. It was just an incredible play." Matt supports the San Francisco 49ers and would one day like to run into the endzone at Candlestick Park and do his funky chicken touchdown dance. Off a Montana special of course.

Our man of many sports Mark Hawthorne doesn't let little details like money get in the way of his dreams. "For starters I would like an autographed Michael Jordan "Wings" poster, which would set you back $2,500," Whoa, whoa, whoa, what is this "For starters" business? Settle down, how many friends do you have anyway? "Then I would like to have the Magic/Larry/Dr J tri-panel #6 card from the 1980-81 Topps set. And then..." C'mon Mark, this is make-believe y'know. "... I am trying to collect a lot of commons showing history making moments, such as when Jordan and the Bulls won their third title." That last idea is pretty cool, not to mention affordable, but you forgot the Taj Mahal and the complimentary steak knives Mark.

Above: Alistair Ramsden ready to do battle with the forces of evil - or is that just his BBQ outfit?

Card gaming expert, Deckmaster Alistair Ramsden dreams of conquests - battlefield conquests that is. "I just want a Napoleanic Wars gaming set." Is there a Napoleanic Wars gaming set available? "No, that is why I want one." Cheeky lot this Card Crazy bunch. Our budding dictator is not just a one-dimensional guy, when he is not war-gaming on computer or tabletop, he likes dancing, singing, role playing games, cooking and re-enacting historical events with full armour combat. Al would one day like to appear in Man-O-Man, Gladiators, and Julia Child's Cooking Hour all at the same time.

Our fearless Editor, Kiri Speirs comes from a long line of league fanatics, "It would be great if I had a complete set of Kangaroo jerseys autographed by the whole team. Its been such a testing time for rugby league fans everywhere and this year's team proved themselves to be a legitimate Australian team by beating allcomers convincingly with style and grace. I would also get each of their rookie cards autographed, and if Santa could stretch to it, I would frame each of the jerseys with the cards."

And what do I want for Christmas? I think a 1972-73 Julius "Dr J" Erving rookie card would be pretty cool. An aerodynamic afro soaring through the air must have been a truly amazing sight to behold. If they could find someway of wrapping it up, the Jordan statue outside the United Centre would look good on my front lawn. But I think I'll settle for Scottie Pippen's funky 2-inch 'fro. A timeless look for those fresh enough to wear it.

Well thats it for another year, as you can see, here at Card Crazy headquarters we're just a bunch of normal card collectors - mini-afro, white belted, red pants wearing, non-smokin', funky chicken dancin', BMW driving, Jordan junkie wannabes. Merry Christmas and have a safe New Year from Card Crazy!

THE FLIP SIDE

By Dempsey Malae

Sure you've seen their names in lights. Superstars, instantly recognisable earning squillions of dollars and living large. But do you know what? They ARE human. They do have lives away from the court. Here are some facts you might not know about your favourite NBA Superstars.

I WANT TO BE LIKE MIKE!

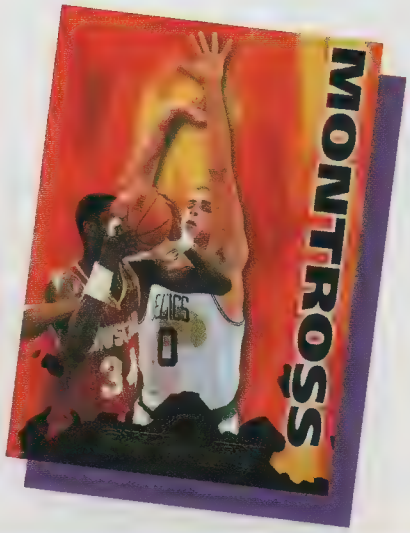
- ✶Whenever Jordan hit a ball into the water hazards at recent charity golf tournaments, fans have dived in because each of his golf balls carries his Airness' monogram.
- ✶Sports Illustrated honoured Michael Jordan as "The Sportsman of the Year" in 1991 and featured a hologram image of Michael's face on the cover.
- ✶Michael actually got cut from his high school team - Emsley A. Laney High in Wilmington in his sophomore year.
- ✶The only player ever to hold Jordan to under 10 points was Indiana's Dan Dakich in a NCAA game in 1983-84. A feat that no one has achieved in the NBA.

PLACES TO EAT

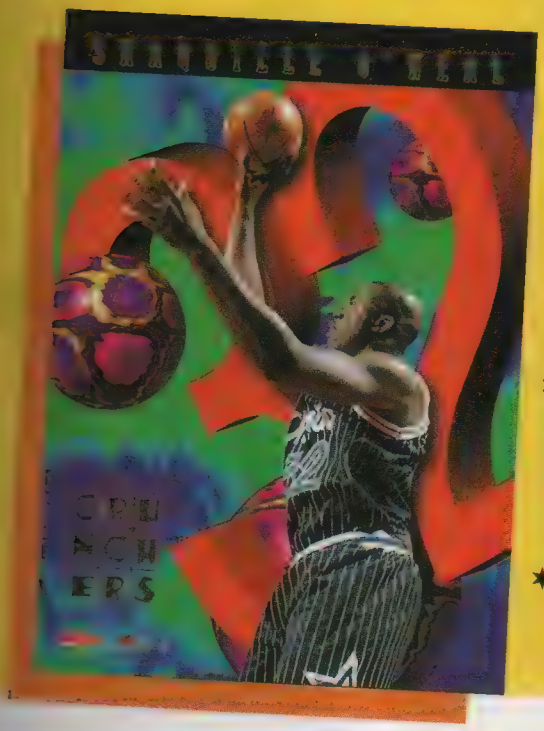
Feel like a chowdown? Why don't you try one of these fine establishments owned by NBA hoopsters.

- ✶Dan Majerle's Sports Bar and Grill in downtown Phoenix.
- ✶Sacramento King Olden Polynice is a part owner in an Italian Restaurant.
- ✶The Houston Rockets' Clyde Drexler's Bar and Grill in Texas.
- ✶Feeling healthy? Try Don Maclean's Deli in Westwood, Californa.
- ✶Need a soft drink to wash it all down with? John Stockton's father owns a bar in his hometown of Spokane.

PLAY BALL!



- Bimbo Coles was drafted by the Philadelphia Phillies and California Angels out of High School.
- Dell Curry pitched at Virginia Tech and was drafted by the Baltimore Orioles.
- Eric Montross was drafted by the Chicago Cubs as a right handed pitcher.
- Kevin Johnson played shortstop in the minor leagues in the Oakland A's system.
- Michael Jordan was offered a scholarship to a major league camp as a high school shortstop. And more recently played for the Birmingham Barons before returning to the Bulls.
- Danny Ainge was drafted by the California Angels and was regarded as a Major League prospect.



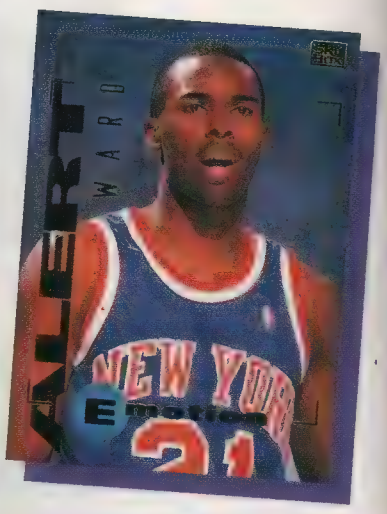
GAME NOTES

- Mark Price has recorded a gospel album and sings in a gospel group with his brothers.
- Brian Williams father Gene, was an original member of The Platters.
- The Phoenix Suns' Wayman Tisdale plays bass for in the band "Fifth Quarter" who released their first album entitled "Power Forward" last year.
- Grant Hill appeared on the David Letterman Show last year and jammed with the resident band on piano.
- Dana Barros, Malik Sealy, Shaquille, Cedric Ceballos, Brian Shaw, Chris Mills, Jason Kidd, J.R. Rider, Gary Payton and Dennis Scott all contributed their musical talents on the hip-hop album "Best Kept Secret" earlier this year released by Epic/Immortal Records.
- Shaquille O'Neal has already made a success of his musical career with his album - "Shaq Diesel" has sold a million units worldwide.

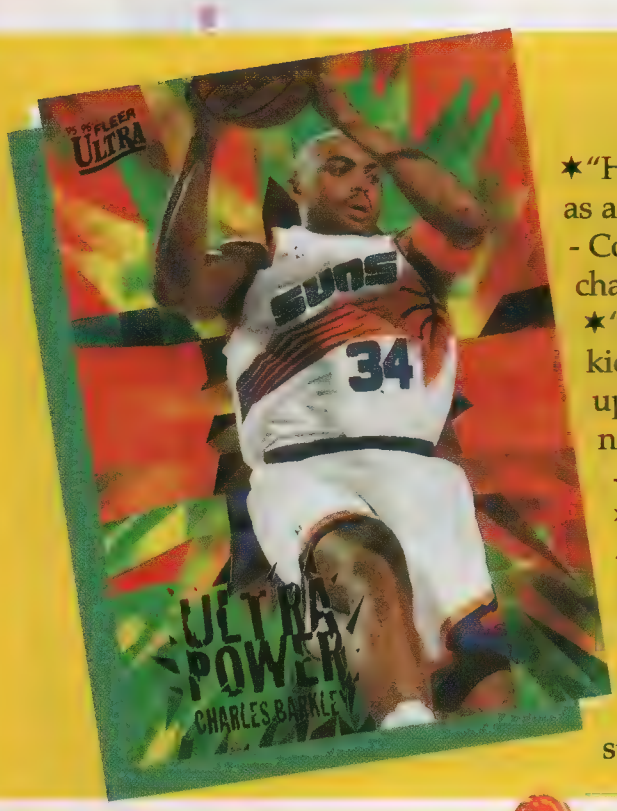
WHATS IN A NAME?

- Isaiah Rider was known throughout his collegiate career as J.R. Rider.
- After he made his pilgrimage to Mecca in 1993, Chris Jackson changed his name to Mahmoud Abdul-Rauf.
- Shawn Kemp of the Seattle Super Sonics has a middle initial "T" but no middle name.
- The full name of last season's Defensive Player of the Year is Dikembe Mutombo Mpolondo Mukamba Jean Jacque Wamutombo.
- Shaq's full name Shaquille Rashuan means "Little Warrior."
- Houston's "Akeem" Olajuwon added the "H" to his name in 1991.

GAMES PEOPLE PLAY!



- ✶Muggsy Bogues of the Charlotte Hornets won the Maryland's 60-pound wrestling title at age 12. Muggsy hasn't grown much, he is still 5 foot 3 inches - the shortest player in the NBA.
- ✶Toni Kukoc of the Chicago Bulls is a former republic of Yugoslavia national age group table tennis champion.
- ✶New York Knick Charlie Ward was the 1993 Heisman Trophy winner for Best Collegiate American Football player. He was a quarterback but football scouts passed on drafting him because of his size.
- ✶The Utah Jazz's multi talented Adam Keefe has represented the USA at basketball and volleyball.



WHO SAID THAT?

✶"Here, go get your hair bleached...you ain't worth a damn as a redhead."
- Coach Lucas to Dennis Rodman after his hair colour change coincided with a Spurs losing streak.

✶"Thats one of the best things about our business, all the kids you get to meet. It's a shame that they have to grow up and be regular people and come to games and call you names."
- Charles Barkley sounding like a parent.

✶"Thank you baseball."
- Ex-Bulls centre Will Purdue alerting on the real reason behind Michael's return.

✶"Never fear because 32 is here."
- Magic Johnson before game 6 of the NBA Finals - Magic ended up with 42 pts, 15 rebounds, 7 assists, 3 steals, an NBA championship and the series MVP award.

IS THAT RIGHT?

- ✶"The Mail Man" Karl Malone loves big rigs and runs his own trucking company. He says there is nothing like hauling that rig around to forget about the pressures of the NBA. Karl is also a keen fisherman.
- ✶Charlotte's man in the middle Alonzo Mourning is one of the 49 children raised by his foster mother. He also had the honour of being invited to the 1988 Olympic trials even though he wasn't in college at the time.
- ✶Dikembe Mutombo has a college degree in linguistics and diplomacy and can speak English, French, Portuguese, Spanish, and 5 African dialects.
- ✶Christian Laettner of the Minnesota Timberwolves has an unusual pet, he owns a shark that swims in a 300-gallon salt-water fish tank.
- ✶Gary Payton's father runs a daycare centre in Oakland named, you guessed it, Payton's Place.

huge collectibility

It's 1995-96 NBA Jam Session, the only trading card big enough to bring you the high-flyin' action of the game itself, and this year it's packing more jams than ever into every pack. It's got subsets like the Connection Collection, featuring cutting-edge die-cuts bringing together the game's coolest combinations, and "2-cool for 2-D" NBA Pop-Ups, the only NBA cards with a vertical leap! And with foil-stamped inserts and the totally fresh Pack Attack game waiting in every pack, Jam Session is now big and phat. So haul yourself down to your card store for some interactive fun, and let the jams begin!

Look for the all-new PACK ATTACK in every pack!

Ok so it's nearly Christmas, and we needed a good excuse to put a few pictures of the old guy in the mag (the one from the north pole that is) - so here it is your guide to Christmas Cards.

CHRISTMAS CARDS

Appropriately, it was Coca Cola who started the recent Santa collector card craze, having already given us the Santa we know and love. Although the Santa Claus version of the Christmas present giver (other versions include St Nicholas and Kris Kringle) was invented in the mid 1800s, previous to his debut appearance in Coke advertising campaigns, he had not traditionally worn a red and white costume. Some bright spark at Coke decided it would be great to have him in Coke colours, and so ingrained has the image become that we probably wouldn't recognise any other version.

So when Collect-A-Card released their first Coca Cola series in 1993, they used the familiar gentleman with the grey beard as the star of the insert cards - and immediately tapped into a nostalgia the general public didn't know they had. Sure there have always been Coke collectors and even Santa collectors, but the cards attracted plenty of people who previously hadn't been interested in either. The instant nostalgia for the old Coke Santa, especially from younger collectors, probably surprised even the company itself. Their campaigns had long since gone on to feature basketball players, musicians and animated creatures.

Sticking with their sure fire formula, Collect-A-Card included Santa inserts in the next three Coke series they did, adding another popular north pole inhabitant - the polar bear - as they went. After four series, Collect-A-Card called it quits, saying that this was the final Coke series they were going to do... except of course for their new range of Coca Cola Premium cards, the first of which features - you guessed it, just in time for Christmas, Santa Claus. There has also been a Coke metal card set devoted entirely to Santa.

But if Christmas cards begin with Coke, they don't quite end there. Issued in 1960 by Fleer was a humorous Christmas set, entitled Yule Laff (geddit), and there has been a recent issue cashing in on the Coke success with Santas Around the World, and the new series Santas of Olde, which features 50 cards with art from such classic American artists as Leyendecker and Norman Rockwell - all showing Santa being used to sell products. There are also individual cards around that reflect a Christmas theme. Take some of the cards on this page. Varga was drawing his take on Santa Claus - feminine of course, in 1940. The painting was originally meant to be a gatefold in the December issue of 1940 Esquire magazine, but ended up as part of a calendar instead. A more recent version of Santa is the magazine cover painted by Ken Kelly.

Surprisingly, with Christmas themed movie releases coming up every year, none of them so far have had trading cards associated with them. The exception is actually a Halloween movie - The Nightmare Before Christmas, where Santa does show up, even if he's kidnapped and then impersonated by the king of Halloween, Jack Skellington. As far as we know, no-one has yet done any trading cards with a southern hemisphere Christmas theme to them either; Santa at the beach, Rudolph at Ayres rock - well, maybe it would be a little tacky.

Luckily for Santa collectors, when Coke put him in the red & white suit, they didn't trade mark him, so the possibilites for trading cards featuring him and other Christmas favourites are there not just at Christmas, but all year round.

Okay Readers, we've got a stack of questions for you, and you have to answer them if you want your say, and of course, a chance at winning one of 4 Transcourt Portable Basketball Systems! (2 to be won in Australia, 2 to be won in New Zealand.)

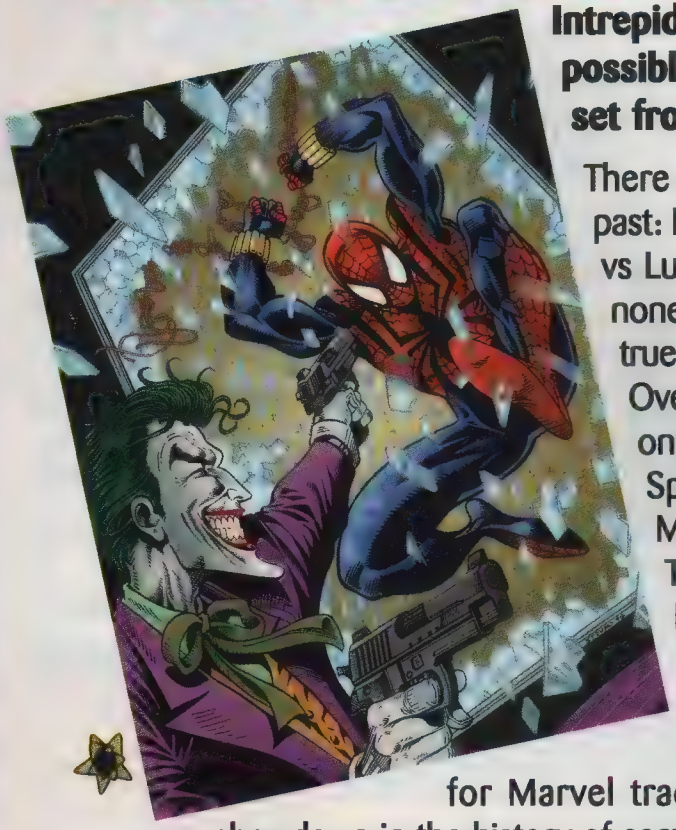
THERE'S GONNA BE A SH

Intrepid fanboy Steven Shaw explores some of the possible outcomes of the new DC vs Marvel card set from Fleer/Skybox...



There have been some pretty big showdowns in the past: Muhammed Ali vs Smokin' Joe Frazier, Darth Vader vs Luke Skywalker, Roadrunner vs Wile E. Coyote, but none of them come close to the sheer magnitude of a true blue Marvel / DC crossover brawl.

Over the years Marvel and DC have crossed swords only a few times - in 1976 there was a Superman vs Spider-Man one-shot comic and a few years later, Marvel's Uncanny X-Men stood off against DC's Teen Titans.

But it's been a very long time since the worlds of these two giants of comic publishing collided. It's high time for a high noon. Now that Skybox (with DC trading cards) owns Fleer (with the licence for Marvel trading cards), the scene is set for the biggest showdown in the history of comics or cards.

The face of each battle card depicts a scene with two characters (One from each publisher) in either a Hero/Villain battle or a Hero/Hero rivalry situation. Each pack contains a ballot card so you can cast your vote to determine the outcome of the top billed "main event" battles. The results from the ballot will be used in the upcoming Marvel versus DC comic books.

Chase cards include:

Impact, which are 18 fully painted embossed cards, by artists like Boris Vallejo and Julie Bell, inserted at 1:4 packs.

Holo/FX cards boast completely new chase card technology, with the combination of clear holograms and full colour paintings. Holo/FX are inserted at 1:12 packs.

Two very rare lenticular "Mirage" cards are inserted at 1:360 packs. These feature a multi-image of a DC and a Marvel character.

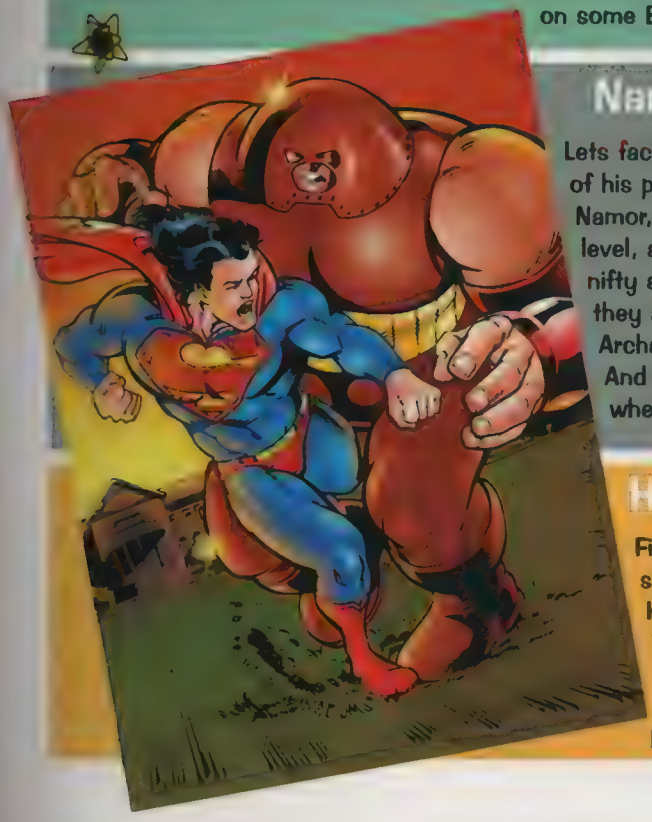
The big question is: Who's gonna win in these battles? Fans have theorised and pondered over this for generations. Is the Hulk better than Superman?

OWDOWN...

Hulk vs Superman

For a start, the Hulk is usually bigger than Superman (depending on who draws the Kryptonian of course). So the Hulk could "smash puny Superhuman" I suppose, although Kal El does have a history of coming back from defeat, rising from the grave etc. It has been suggested that there may be a similarity between Kryponite radiation and the gamma radiation that caused Bruce Banner's transformation into the Hulk. If this is true Supes may go down before the end of the first round.

Superman and the Hulk are both highly intelligent people. The initial brawl could soon turn into a battle of wits, with Banner the scientist probably coming out on top. Why? Simple really - for all his advanced mental faculties, Superman still thinks the babes won't recognise him if he slaps on some Buddy Holly frames.



Namor vs Aquaman

Lets face it - Aquaman is a putz. He dwells far too much on the tragedies of his past and loves to sulk underwater.

Namor, on the other hand, thrives on hassling those who live above sea level, and vocalises a lot about how hard done by he is. He's also got nifty ankle-wings, though I'm not sure he got them, or how in the heck they are strong enough to keep a fully grown mutant airborne. I mean, Archangel from the X-Men needs these great big 6 foot wings to fly. And speaking of the ankle-wings, what does Namor wear on his feet when he goes nightclubbing? Thongs no doubt.

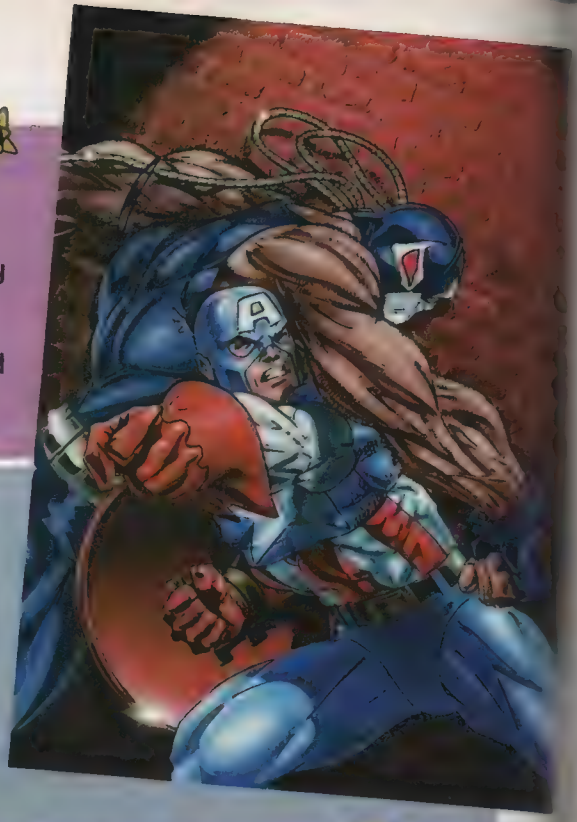
Human Torch vs Firestorm

Firestorm?!! Firestorm?! Come on man. Give us a genuine flaming superhero to give it his best shot against the Human Torch - Dark Horse's Flaming Carrot could do better than this second-stringer! The Carrot could at least confuse the Human Torch with his philosophical ramblings and nonsensical riddles.

But as far as a Torch vs Firestorm bout goes, Johnny Storm (The Human Torch) can fly flaming rings around the likes of Firestorm.

Spider-Man vs Superboy

The pre-John Byrne Superboy would have gone home and cried on Mum's shoulder after a berating from the friendly neighbourhood Spider-Man. But this new Superboy, complete with leather jacket and garterbelt, is pretty quick with the tongue, obviously taking his dialogue and his fashion cues from Chachi off Happy Days.
So what we're looking at here is a war of words - an exchange of insults and witty repartee. I'm hoping for a steady decline into the wonderful world of comic book cliches, with the cheesiest line delivering the ultimate blow.



Captain America vs Batman

Hey, this ones a real light versus dark fight. In one corner we have the red white and blue, blonde haired, blue eyed Steve Rogers (Secretly Malibu Ken in disguise), with his pearly whites a-gleaming. In the opposite corner, we have the twisted duality of the Dark Knight himself. Now, Cap may have the shield of liberty by his side for protection, but Bats is no slouch with a batarang either - I'm picking the Caped Crusader will deck the Super Soldier, sidekick or no sidekick. That's unless Cap's connections with secretive Government agencies start helping out.

Venom vs Lobo

Not really sure who the good guy is in this case. Venom is a pretty dangerous character, but it remains to be seen whether he can stand up to the sort of obscene language that Lobo's gonna dish out. And Venom's probably going to accuse Lobo of being some sort of reject from Kiss (ask your parents). Maybe it'll be a strictly no chains, no saliva affair. Lets face it - these two shouldn't be fighting. They should go grab a couple of brewskis together, shoot some pool and generally have a rocking good time. And after a good old-fashioned night on the town, when Venom's suffering from the Mother of all Hangovers, Lobo will tear the slimy creep limb from limb.

THE MAIN SET CONSISTS OF:

12	DC Hero cards
12	Marvel Hero cards
10	DC Villain cards
10	Marvel Villain cards
12	Rivilry cards
16	Hero vs Hero cards
13	Hero vs Villain cards
15	Villan vs Villain cards

Joker vs Spider-Man

This will be a doozy. I already have this one plotted out... Spidey bursts in though the window. Shattered glass flies everywhere. The Joker swings around with guns at the ready. He lets loose with a maniacal laugh and lowers his sights onto the web-slinger. At this point, Spider-Man commences to explain the whole Peter Parker/Ben Reilly/clone saga that has recently unfolded in the Spidey comics. The Joker lowers his gun, falters and sits down. Bored senseless, the Joker falls asleep and Spidey wraps him in a web cocoon.

Quicksilver vs Flash

Friction lines will abound in this little rivalry - there's sure to be more super speed tornadoes than you'll find at a Wizard of Oz convention. But I must admit that I find these two a little lack lustre, a trifle two-dimensional.

Wonder Woman vs Thor.

Two mythical comic characters here, both endowed with the strength of gods. Thor's hammer can only bounce off Wonder Woman's bracelets and Wonder Woman's golden lasoo can't be strong enough to hold the mighty God of Thunder for too long. I believe the true struggle here is to find a hair treatment that will serve them both - a shine that will remain tangle-free for the duration of the fight. With Thor's fine blonde locks and Diana's thick ebony tresses to look after, we're in for a long search (It won't happen overnight, but it will happen).

Deathstroke vs Punisher

Two mercenary-type vigilantes at each others throat sounds like a nasty run-in. These two are usually motivated by revenge, and unless a close relative or two is being tortured by the mob, they don't really come out swinging. My money's down on Deathstroke for this one. Frank (the Punisher) is just too tired for this match up, whereas Deathstroke is a quick thinker who keeps secret weapons stashed in his goatee.

FLEER ULTRA MAKES A SLAM DUNK COMEBACK

Let's go back in time. Late in the 93-94 season, Fleer Ultra released its firecracker Series 2 set, which featured the HOT RC's of Hardaway and Webber. But the main motivation for pack busting excitement was the "NEW" concept of "an insert per pack".

Todd Hanford hosts the Slam Session

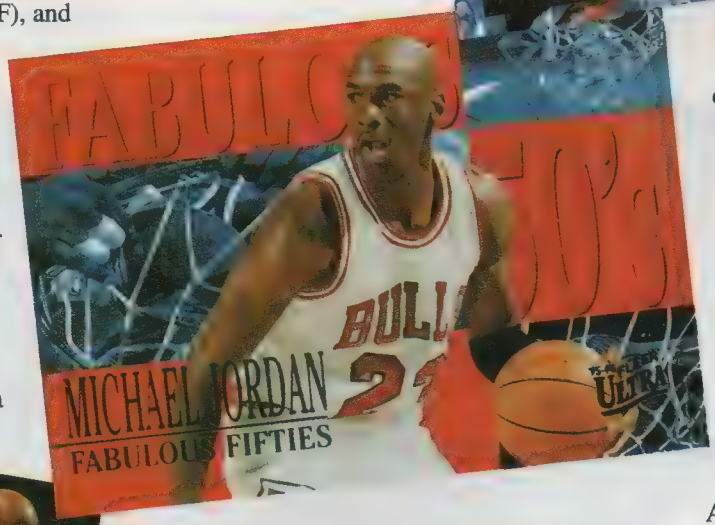
Fleer Ultra scored BIG TIME and sent collectors into a frenzy with intensely coloured, foil stamped, and metal etched DREAM inserts. Names like POWER IN THE KEY, INSIDE OUTSIDE, and FAMOUS NICKNAMES were the only words most collectors could speak.

But by the 93-94 off-season, Fleer Ultra faded like a shooting star. There were just TOO MANY of these high powered Inserts available on the market, and as values fell sharply into a dark basement, collectors felt a little bit cheated that their dream cards had suddenly become a rude awakening.

Fleer Ultra didn't help its own image by releasing a relatively dull 94-95 Series 1 set (Ultra Power Inserts were the only cards to GO OFF), and by the time the big names like E-Motion and SP hit the scene, Fleer Ultra could only be found on the back page of most collector's wish lists.

But HANG ON and put those violins away ! This year Fleer Ultra made a fast break on its middle market competitors (namely Upper Deck and Stadium Club) and raced down the court with a slam dunk set loaded with goodies!

Pack busting is a WILD challenge as each pack is very, very stingy when it comes to pulling major star cards. Ultra has spruced up its GOLD MEDALLION parallel set, which debuted as a small foil stamp on its 94 Baseball sets, by giving us a full bleed gold card in every pack. These cards are so hot even the commons look good!



challenge, and those that have the big bucks to chase that challenge, one might be brave enough to try the 9-card, 1 every 37 packs Rising Star Insert set. Although these cards are definitely metal etched gems, just remember that the key cards in this set will probably be the Gold Medallion Jordan and the Fabulous Fifties Jordan.

As a final note on the Ultra comeback, just remember that card collecting is NOT just about Inserts and Parallel sets. Fleer Ultra has produced a great looking basic set with a thicker card stock than most, and most collectors will really enjoy the challenge of completing it.

COLLECTORS TIP: Keep a close eye out for Gold Medallion Inserts, which only show up with a small foil stamp and are almost as hard to spot as last year's Stadium Club 1st day issues.

Although Ultra Power and All NBA Team return, the Pick Hit Insert has to be the Double Trouble Inserts. This 10 card set, with Jordan, Hardaway, Pippen and Barkley leading the way, is a blast of sheer colour that makes last year's effort, as well as most of this year's inserts, look rather bland.

For those in need of a superior

REDISCOVERY: 1993-94 FLEER ULTRA FAMOUS NICKNAMES INSERTS

O.K. so I just said the bottom fell out of the 93-94 Ultra market, but that was almost 18 months ago. Now take a second look at which set is making a comeback. Famous Nicknames is simply an AWESOME set, when considering the important factors like design and player selection. And the challenge deepens, not only will they be Hard 2 Find on the shelves, but these cards aren't so easy to get in packs either. You'll be wading through plenty of All Rookies and Inside Outsides before you scream out a Famous Nickname. The bottom line is: This set has increased in value by 100% since the beginning of this year. My advice is to ACT NOW! I mean you don't want other collectors saying things to you like: "Could you please find somewhere else to sleep?"

1995-96 TOPPS LEADS WITH THE LEADERS

The most exciting thing about this year's Series 1 Topps set ISN'T the inserts. The first 30 cards in the set are devoted to Active and League Leaders, and have the most logical action photography of any subset I've ever seen. Just check out Dikembe Mutombo's rebounding card and you'll see the master executing the perfect BOX OUT. Or Kenny Anderson's Assists card with another great dish past a stunned defender. Applause to Above: Dikembe even the rebound and his name in gold foil.

Topps for a job well done. And by the way, if collecting a regular issue subset isn't enough of a challenge for you, or if you really want to spend more money, then Topps has granted you your wish. This year, instead of a nearly impossible parallel set (Spectralights), Topps has paralleled ONLY the Active and League Leaders cards and decorated them with thicker card stock and prismatic foil. Prepare yourself for a nailbiting experience because these "Power Booster" cards show up just one per box.

1995-96 FLEER TOTAL D — THE ACTIVE INSERT

The frenzy surrounding this set is equal to or better than the 93-94 Ultra craze. Not exactly the same rarity or quality of its Hard 2 Find 1992-93 namesake, it has nonetheless captured the appeal of collectors, who panned last year's "far out, dude" design. The fact is that this set holds all the keys for success: an outstanding lineup, a CALM gold foil design, easy on the budget, and the cards aren't too easy/ not to hard to pull from packs. Look for these wherever good cards are sold and you still may not find them. They are HOT!

GUIDE to the GUIDE

The price guide is not an offer to buy or sell cards, or a guarantee of what a card is "worth." The values quoted in this guide are based on surveys of transactions and other market information obtained from card outlets. They therefore reflect the prices paid for cards on sale at retail outlets in the last month, not what card outlets will pay for the cards. The "low" column represents the lower end of what you can expect to pay for a card, and the "high" column the higher end. Prices may vary from American based guides due to local factors such as availability and local demand, and of course prices always vary from dealer to dealer. Therefore we recommend you use this publication as a guide only. You are the only one who knows what you are actually willing to pay for a card.

The prices quoted are for cards in NEAR MINT condition (see below) and are in AUSTRALIAN dollars, but given the current exchange rate, and taking into account the NZ GST, the prices should now be similar.

Key to Abbreviations

LA = Limited Availibility. LR = Limited Release. RC = Rookie Card. RR = Restricted Release. SP = Short Print. AU=Autographed. NNO = no number. NB. A player's rookie card is deemed to be the first issued card in an offically licenced set.

⇑ = Card risen in value from previous issue.

⇓ = Card dropped in value from previous issue.

Normal = Card value has remained the same or new entry. The arrows indicate movement since the last issue, not any future upwards or downwards trend.

WINNING ISN'T EVERYTHING

In almost every game of Magic the Gathering, or any other trading card game for that matter, someone has to lose. You can grumble about it or be a good sport about it, but you can also learn from it.

Alistair Ramsden is the Deck Master

Sometimes you can just get dealt a bad hand. Assuming you're playing a no-land mulligan (that's where if you get no land in your original hand, you get to re-deal it), the worst you can do is get six land and one spell or vice versa. Either is pretty bad. On the one hand you've got the wherewithal to cast all your spells, but it's more than likely the game will be tipped in your opponent's favour before you get to do anything. On the other you don't get to cast spells, period. The obvious questions to raise are; does my land-to-spells ratio need changing? Or (more likely), did I shuffle my deck before I played? You get a free Homer Simpson "Doh!" each time the latter happens!

Getting trashed is a learning experience. If you're into improving your game play, ask yourself some questions. How did my opponent win, or how did I lose? If your opponent has a vastly superior deck, it may be impossible to win, but if you reckon your decks are even, then presumably half of the reasons why they won reside in your deck and your game play of it.

Look at the cards you both played. Did your opponent have cards in their deck that your deck cannot counter? This is a vital ingredient of MTG, as some colours just can't cut it on the defence of some attacks - like red not having much defence against enchantments, for instance. If they did, you might look to see if you can shape your deck to include some of those missing counter cards. Also consider your attack cards. Did your opponent have easy counters for all your attacks? Sure, attack is better than defence, but sometimes it is better to marshall your strength than fritter it away. For example, when facing a blue player with a fistful of cards, is it wise to attack them directly? It's more than likely that they hold a whole lot of counters, so perhaps it is better to seek some other advantage, such as holding more cards, or a card adder like the Library of Leng, before threatening them.

Did you play a card at the wrong time? For instance, you can use a card too quickly, when it could have been used to much greater effect later on. I myself have the bad habit of casting Lightning Bolts too early.

Although this can sometimes aggravate your opponent into doing something more foolish in return, several times I have kicked myself when later in the game I turn over a Fork, and at a time when those extra three points of damage could have killed them. Keeping one or two land in your hand is also a very good idea, because you never know when some nasty land effecting card will turn up and ruin all your best laid, high-mana plans.

What was the reason you played a card? "Because it was there" is not a suitable answer. The four options are:

1. To do damage or set up to do damage to your opponent.

2. To remove or counter things which are causing or could cause you damage.

3. To balance the game in your favour.

4. To remove or counter threats to create an unfavourable game balance.

If you can't see one of those motives when playing a card, don't play it.

Did you telegraph your attacks? A lot of the time this has to do with the timing rules. You don't have to put instant spells out, for instance Giant Growth, until the moment they are needed. So if you follow the rules carefully, the only things that can block instant spells are other instant spells or effects already in play. If you telegraph your play of such a card, it's not illegal, you are just giving your opponent an advantage that you don't need to give them. Similarly, you can telegraph your intent to use a direct damage spell, or launch a creature attack, just by the way you count your cards. Of course, in these latter cases you may be bluffing...

Did I actually help my enemy out when I thought I wasn't? As a simple case, don't play Mana Flares when fighting a red X-er deck -it only gives them more power. In fact think very carefully about any global enchantment or effect that you use. If it's going to help them more than you, something is going wrong.

If you can see why you lost, then in future you will be able to say to yourself, "Aha! I've been here before. This time I'll do something different." Remember again that a lot of the time Magic is won or lost on the turn of a friendly card. It is inherently random, which is also one of the reasons why it is enjoyable. You can set up your deck to play to particular strengths, and if you know them, you can also work out a card play strategy which maximises them. You can't win all the time, but if you prefer, you can learn from your mistakes.

Having passed the halfway point of the season, its time to turn a critical eye on this year's rookie crop and and evaluate their performance to date.

Overall it can be said that while some players have made valuable contributions to their teams no one has had the kind of impact that Maeshall Faulk, Jerome Bettis or Drew Bledsoe have had as rookies in recent years.

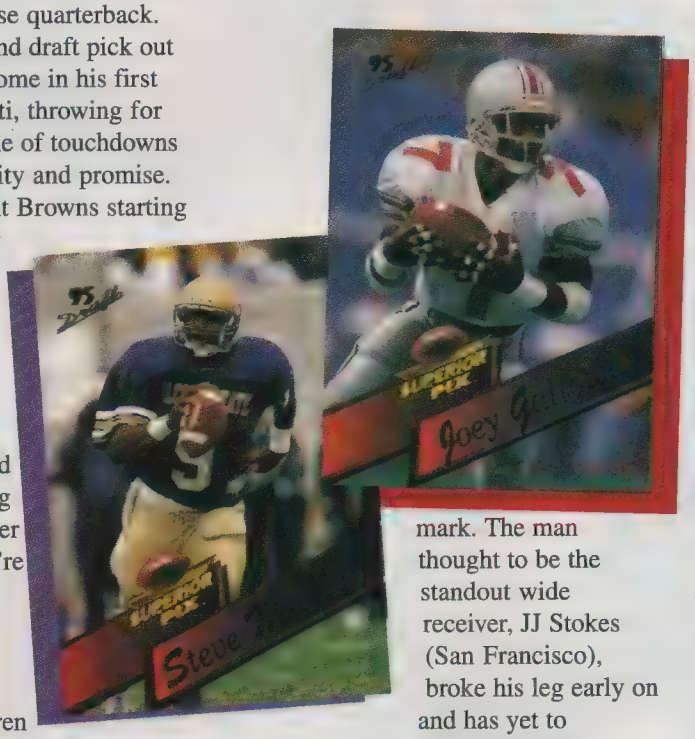
In the marquee position of quarterback only Kerry Collins (Carolina) and Eric Zeier (Cleveland) have started games or seen substantial playing time for their teams. Collins, like the other Carolina QBs has suffered from interceptions, but with the Panthers exceeding everyones wildest expectations this season, he has a future ahead as their franchise quarterback.

Zeier, a 3rd round draft pick out of Georgia, was awesome in his first start against Cincinnati, throwing for 319 yards and a couple of touchdowns while showing authority and promise. Testaverde, the current Browns starting quarterback has never really adjusted to the NFL, meaning that Zeier should get the top job for good once he gains more experience.

Both Collins and Zeier have outstanding futures and any number of rookie cards - they're worth tracking down. Other young quarterbacks with futures are Chad May with Minnesota (Warren Moon turns 40 next year), Steve McNair with Houston (amazing talent), and Korvell Stewart with Pittsburgh (Nat O'Donnell is not the man to take the Steelers to the next level).

At wide receiver, its the players who pull duty as kick receivers creating the excitement. Tamarick Vanover scored with his first touch of the ball in the NFL, returning a kickoff all the way against the Seahawks. His outstanding play has injected enthusiasm into the Chiefs and their fans this year, and his speed presents a real threat to opponents. I cannot say enough about this kid: he will be a star. In Seattle Joey Galloway is doing the same kind of thing for the Seahawks, recently returning a punt 79 yards for a touchdown against the Giants that ultimately won the game.

Also playing well is Michael Westbrook with the Washington Redskins, although he has suffered from his team's poor showing this year. His great size (6'3", 215 pounds) and speed mark him as a big play man. He has already had an impact with Washington's tally of receptions of 20 yards or more exceeding last year's mark. The man thought to be the standout wide receiver, JJ Stokes (San Francisco), broke his leg early on and has yet to contribute to the '49ers effort. Like Westbrook he is a big play receiver and will be a star in the coming years.



Ironically it is the running back who will not play this season who is attracting the attention of fans and collectors. Ki-Jana Carter's injury is well documented, but the promise he showed in the pre-season coupled with the electrifying play of Jeff Blake, Carl Pickens and the rest of the Cincinnati offense means that he remains the hottest choice for collectors. Make no mistake, next season Carter and the rest of the Bengals will be lighting up the NFL.

Along with Rashaan Salaam at Chicago, the standout rookie running backs are two unknowns, Curtis Martin and Terrell Davis. Bill Parcells has been looking for a running game to complement Drew Bledsoe's passing attack and he has found it in Curtis Martin, a 3rd round draft pick out of Pittsburgh. Martin began the season with a 100 yard day against the Browns and recently returned to that level of play after going missing for a few games (along with the rest of the New England offense). Against the Jets he gained 170 yards on 34 carries for 2 touchdowns, while showing good speed and great instincts - he's one for the future.

Like Parcells, new Denver coach Mike Shanihan was looking for a running back to offset quarterback John Elway and he found it in a 6th round draft choice out of Georgia: Terrell Davis. The Broncos running attack, once inept, is now near the top of the league and its spearhead, Davis, has been outstanding - against the Cardinals, 135 yards on 22 carriers for a touchdown. This kid has been great.

Other promising running backs that are playing behind existing stars include Sherman Williams at Dallas, Napolean Kaufman in Oakland and Tyrone Wheatly with the Giants.

This group of rookies offers many players who look like becoming stars in the coming years. Based on the play I have seen, Eric Zeier, Tamarick Vanover and Curtis Martin are the top rookies in the top 3 glamour positions. But I think Michael Westbrook, JJ Stokes, Tyrone Wheatley and Ki-Jana Carter offer the greatest potential for fans and collectors alike. If you've got their cards - keep them. If you haven't, get them!

Wizard of Oz

As the Australian cricket team look to battle the might of Pakistan and the West Indies in defence of their number one ranking, their attentions should be focused on the task at hand - an intriguing test series against the underrated Sri Lankans.

It is easy to forget that there is another touring party in Australia, what with the enigmatic Pakistanis and brooding West Indians garnering most of the public attention. Quietly biding their time have been the unassuming underdogs from the Bay of Bengal. Making their test debut against England on February 17 1982, the Sri Lankans, as to be expected, struggled in the test arena during the eighties. However recent results point to a international side that should not be so easily despatched. The last time they were in Australia for a test series, they gave the Aussies one hell of a fright with the sensational middle order batsman Aravinda Da Silva registering scores of 167, 75 and 72. The Aussies won the series 1-0 with a win at Hobart but they knew they had been pushed hard. In fact Australia finally secured a series win on the last session of the last day. More recently the Sri Lankans recorded their first away test series win with a historical 1-0 victory over the hapless New Zealand.

Looking at the Sri Lankan lineup there are a number of world class performers. Aravinda De Silva has an healthy average of 37.53 and an excellent high score of 267. He is a prolific strokemaker who can punish any attack with disdain and is equally at home in the 50 over game where he has 3 one day centuries and 32 half-centuries. Arjuna Ranatunga is another standout batsman with 4 centuries and 20 half-centuries at a test average of 35.21. A powerful hitter of the ball Ranatunga reminds many of one of the best batsman in the world, Pakistan's Javed Miandad. He is also the only remaining member of the the first Sri Lankan side and is their current captain. There are also some emerging players who show real promise, Chaminda Vaas being the most exciting. A whippy left armer, Vaas is an outstanding prospect with genuine pace and has the ability to swing the ball late, prompting comparisons to the great Waqar Younis.

Due to their relative inexperience in the test arena and consequently their low profile, a Sri Lankan has never appeared on a trading card before. Due to their growing prominence and to commemorate their first ever 3-test series against Australia, Futera came to the party and honoured several Sri Lankans in this year's cricket series. Sanath Jayasuriya, Hashan Tillekeratne and Aravinda De Silva appear in the "There's No Limit" insert set, Pramodya Wickramasinghe, Asanka Gurusinha and Arjuna Ranatunga appear in the "Bat to Ball" double-sided insert set. The little general himself, Aravinda De Silva secured the number 4 batting spot in the "Supreme Team" insert set, which is a composite side of this season's touring sides.

Player Profile: Michael Bevan

Many an overseas player has ventured into the English county cricket competition - and just as many have come back disillusioned and burnt. Not so with NSW stalwart Michael Bevan who spent the off-season with Yorkshire. He had a fine season with a team that has struggled along with overseas imports for a number of years now. The key to a good season is to advance through the money rich stages of the Natwest Trophy 1 dayer competition. Bevan justified his import status, at least in the eyes of fans, by accounting for Essex with an unbeaten 91, and traditional rivals Lancashire, with a resolute 60 not out.

Needless to say, the Yorkshiremen were impressed with Bevan's contribution during the season. Yorkshire captain Martyn Moxon had the intelligence and foresight to put Bevan in charge of fielding drills and the ploy paid dividends as the side became more enthusiastic in the field. Moxon has no illusions about the benefits of the new regime, "I think we've fielded better as a team since he came here than we have in the five years since I became captain."

There is no denying that Michael Bevan is a talented cricketer who plays the game with purpose and passion. He is a elegant batsman who has the technique and the strokes to make him one of the most exciting batsman in the world to watch. Unfortunately his experience at international level has been limited due to the wealth of batting talent that exists in Australia. But if the knowledgeable Yorkshire fans are correct then it is only a matter of time before Bevan commands a regular spot on the Australian team.

Since debuting for NSW in 1989 Bevan has appeared on 7 trading cards. Strangely enough he first appearance on trading card was an insert. Collecting fringe test player's cards can be exciting, such as in Bevan's case, where their talent is unquestioned and they are primed for a big season.

The Card Crazy Star Wars giveaway

What do you mean my rookie card fell out the hatch?

Okay all you closet Jedi Knights. You've collected Star Wars cards, action figures and placemats. You've got the soundtrack on vinyl, tape and CD. And you're fast outgrowing your Yoda jammies. Well, have we got a giveaway for you...

The original release of Star Wars in 1977 represented a major technological breakthrough for the entire motion picture industry. Never before had a film relied so heavily on special effects and the art of illusion to convey its story. In order for Star Wars to be a success, the audience had to believe in concepts as far fetched as spaceship dogfights, alien creatures and light-sabres. A special effects company was formed specifically for this purpose, named Industrial Light and Magic (ILM). ILM has revolutionised special effects in the Star Wars films and worked on many other fantasy films, the most notable of recent times being Jurassic Park. Other companies founded by George Lucas such as Lucasfilm's THX division, have continued to research and develop film-making processes and equipment, even developing the THX sound system for cinemas.

Card Crazy are offering a Star Wars prize pack to one lucky reader. The highlight of the prize pack is the complete Star Wars trilogy on videotape. All three classic SF films, Star Wars, The Empire Strikes Back and Return of the Jedi have been re-released by 20th Century Fox Home Entertainment though Festival Records. Digital remastering by engineers at Lucasfilm's THX division has resulted in a crisp clearer picture than on previous releases. The colours are more vibrant, and sound quality has also improved. Each film also contains an interview with Star Wars creator George Lucas.

STAR WARS TRILOGY PRIZE PACK

In addition to the Star Wars trilogy, the prize pack contains one Yoda/Return of the Jedi T-shirt, one box of Topps Official Star Wars Caps, one box of Topps Empire Strikes Back Widevision cards and a limited edition Star Wars poster (number #37 of 10,000).

Klem Ryan in the Batters Box

Nineteen ninety five did not start all that well for baseball with the continuing labour squabbles putting the future of America's national pastime in doubt. But with true resilience the game and it's stars have rebounded with another great season full of drama, tight finishes, and individual triumphs.

The Seattle Mariners have without question been the surprise team of '95. On the back of phenomenal pitching from Randy Johnson and career years from Jay Buhner and Edgar Martinez, they have managed to reach the post season for the first time in their history. But the most astonishing point of the Mariners success has been that it was achieved despite the absence of Ken Griffey Jr. for a large part of the season. Nobody in their right mind would have picked Seattle to be a contender at the beginning of the year without baseballs most complete player.

It is also worth mentioning the achievements of three of this seasons outstanding players. Albert Belle may not have been a card favourite outside of Cleveland prior to this season, but after this year he is sure to jump to the top of a lot of want lists. With his fiftieth homer near the final day of the season Belle became only the third player in the last thirty years to hit 50 home runs. As if that's not impressive enough , he is the only player EVER to hit 50 homers and 50 doubles in the same season. He hit 31 home runs in August and September alone which is the most for a two month period in the history of the game. It exhausts me just typing his slugging feats.

Tony Gwynn won his sixth batting title, (second consecutively), with a .367 average. This follows on from his .394 effort of last year and .358 in 1993. This three year run places Tony in the same league as Ty Cobb, Stan Musial, and Rod Carew as the best contact hitter of his generation. Tony now has the same number of batting titles as Ted Williams. Do not be surprised if Gwynn repeats as the NL batting champ in 1996.

On the mound, Greg Maddux has led the way with one of the best seasons a pitcher has ever had. With a 19 win and only 2 lost record Maddux had among the top five seasons of all time for winning percentage by a starter. In capturing his third ERA crown in succession he joins Sandy Koufax as the only pitcher in the last thirty years to win three straight titles. These stats will undoubtedly lead to his fourth Cy Young award in four years which is another record. As I am typing this I am watching Maddux pitch a 2 hit complete game victory over the Indians in the first game of the World Series. There is absolutely no question that Maddux is the best pitcher of this decade and will be talked about as one of the greatest of all time when he is inducted into the Hall of Fame sometime next century.

With all the season's excitement over we now have to wait for the full 162 game schedule next season, (God only knows how many homers Belle would have hit with an 18 extra games), the first in three seasons. So to fill the void while baseball is absent I will thumb through the best offerings from our friends, the card companies.

TOPPS STADIUM CLUB (HIGH NUMBER SERIES)

This high number series is a wrap up of the players missed in the first two Stadium Club issues. It includes a number of players who changed team or were brought up from the minors. The standout highlight of the set for most collectors is the presence of an Hideo Nomo rookie. These have been relatively hard to come by due to his absence from nearly every major early season set. Most companies did not include the star rookie right-hander due to his untested skills in the American baseball system - more the fool them. But with his start in this years All Star game in Texas, Nomo's card stock has rocketed. Due to the small size of the set, (135 cards), and more cards per pack than a set like Upper Deck SP your chances of pulling a Nomo card for minimal expense are quite good.

Other than Nomo the set is unspectacular, but it does contain most of today's stars in an 'Extreme Corps' subset which highlights team leaders in a variety of categories. One point to note is the presence of two sharp looking insert sets. 'Crystal Ball' foil cards include this years hottest young rookies. The other set are 'Power Zone' prism style cards. Both sets look hot, but are tough pulls at around one per box.

All in all this is a very run of the mill update set from Stadium Club.

Vampirella Gallery

Topps first Vampirella card release proved a popular seller with a well-established character riding the crest of the "Bad-Girl" wave that has crashed through the comics and card collecting hobbies over the past year. Vampirella was originally published by Jim Warren in the late 1960s (who also published "Creepy"), printed black and white on magazine format to avoid conflict with the Comics Code Authority.

Warren published their last Vampirella comic in 1988 and the title was picked up by Harris Comics in 1991, who revitalised the character for a new generation of readers. Topps are releasing their second Vampi set, called Vampirella Gallery, a set of 72 cards that follows the "Mystery Walk" storyline from current issues of the Harris Comic.

Subsets are: Painted art subset by Ray Lago and writer Tom Snigoski; a subset featuring covers and alternate covers from Buzz & Chris Berkely; and a new comic art subset by Mike Deodato, Joe Jusko, Walter McDaniel, Zina Saunders and Kirk Van Wormer.

The Topps "New Visions" concept, which encourages bold interpretations is again being used for this series. Artists contributing to Vampirella Gallery include Mike Allred, Dave Gibbons, Sam Kieth, Mike Ploog and Hector Gomez.

An insert set featuring the work of classic Vampi artist Jose Gonzalez is included as is an insert set with cover art from the Warren years. A Jose Gonzalez Vampirella hologram is inserted at one per case.

What? - Surely Not Star Trek ?!

Star Trek's impact on contemporary culture is the focus of not one, but three card series to be released by Skybox International over the next year.

The first series of Star Trek: Reflections of the Future is due out soon and examines the personnel of the Star Trek crews and the technologies that they use.

The documentary-like perspective of the narrative highlights how Star Trek has always reflected the times in which its various incarnations were created.

Series Two, due out in April 1996, will examine the starships and aliens created for the show. The third series is due for release around September 1996 and looks at Star Trek phenomena and cosmic phenomena (not another one of those gaseous anomalies!) Chase cards include an exchange card for an ever popular Skymotion card.

Theme Cards

DragonBall Z Cards

The considerable talents of Toei, Japan's premier animation studio, are highlighted in DragonBall Z cards.

Between the original Dragon Ball animated series and the more adult-orientated DragonBall Z there are over 700 episodes. Based on a comic by Akira Toriyama, this show has proven to be one of the most popular animated shows in the world, grabbing huge ratings in not only Japan, but also France, Spain and Italy.

Dragon Ball trading cards are presently made in Japan by Amada Printing Ltd. and sell just as well in Europe as they do in Tokyo.

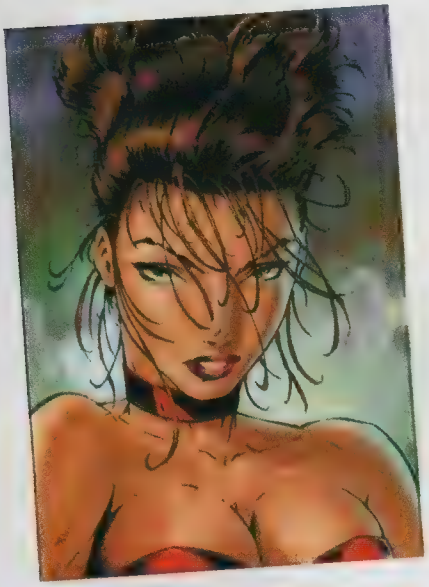
The television series has just started in the US, and already plans are afoot for American-made Dragon Ball cards to hit the shelves sometime next year. Collectors who are also fans of Anime will love these Japanese made cards, which will probably become nigh on impossible to get hold of once the US versions are available.

Avengelyne Chromium

Those who keep an eye on comic-related magazines will already be familiar with model Cathy Christian, the mega-babe who portrayed Vampirella at conventions up until very recently.



Christian's involvement with comic book characters went one step further when after resigning from her post as Vampi she provided the inspiration and story for Avengelyne Chromium, a 99-card set boasting contributions from artists Rob Liefeld, Jim Lee, Humberto Ramos, Scott Clark, Tom Raney and others.

Nine glow-in-the-dark chromium cards are inserted as are nine photo-chromium cards of Cathy Christian herself. A frenzy of foil-ripping fun awaits.

Bring me a Shrubbery!

Cornerstone Communications are releasing their second series of Monty Python cards. This time the focus is not on the television shows, but Monty Python and the Holy Grail, the wonderfully witty feature film that follows the foolhardy exploits of King Arthur and the Knights of the Round Table in their search for the legendary cup from the last supper.

One of the most popular Python projects, Holy Grail is considered a cult classic, and among certain circles remains one of the more often quoted pieces.

As with a lot of movie-related card releases, Monty Python and the Holy Grail cards are in wide format to capture the entire motion picture frame. Cornerstone are referring to this format as "Very Wide."

Monty Python and the Holy Grail features all the hilarious characters like the Black Knight ("Just a flesh wound"), the Knights who say "Nif!", Brave Sir Robin ("He chickened out, he ran away...") and of course, the Killer Rabbit.

Rumour has it that a "Knights of the Round Table" subset will assist in the discovery of the elusive "Holy Grail" card.

The Doctor Is In

That ever regenerating Time Lord from the planet Gallifrey is back in a third (count 'em) card series from Cornerstone Communications. 110 cards delve deeper into the exploits of the Doctor and the longest-running science fiction TV show ever (Yep, longer than that show with the pointy eared one).

In addition to the main set, chase cards include rare autographed cards and a 9-card subset features the Time Lord himself in his various incarnations. Beware though - the previous two series were printed in small quantities and are quite hard to find. The same may be true for series III... would you like a jellybaby?

The Maxx

Sam Kieths purple hero with the big choppers is full-steam ahead in the popularity stakes, not only selling well on the comic stands, but gaining more and more fans through his exposure as an animated feature on MTV.

This 99-card set features all brand new art and foil stamping, with contributions by Jim Lee, Kevin Nowlan, Michael Allred, Art Adams, Michael Golden, Kelly Jones, Arthur Suydam, Sergio Aragones, Bob Fingerman, Ken Steacy and John K Snyder III.

Inserts include a 9-card foil-bordered fully painted set and a 9-card embossed set features all new Sam Kieth artwork.

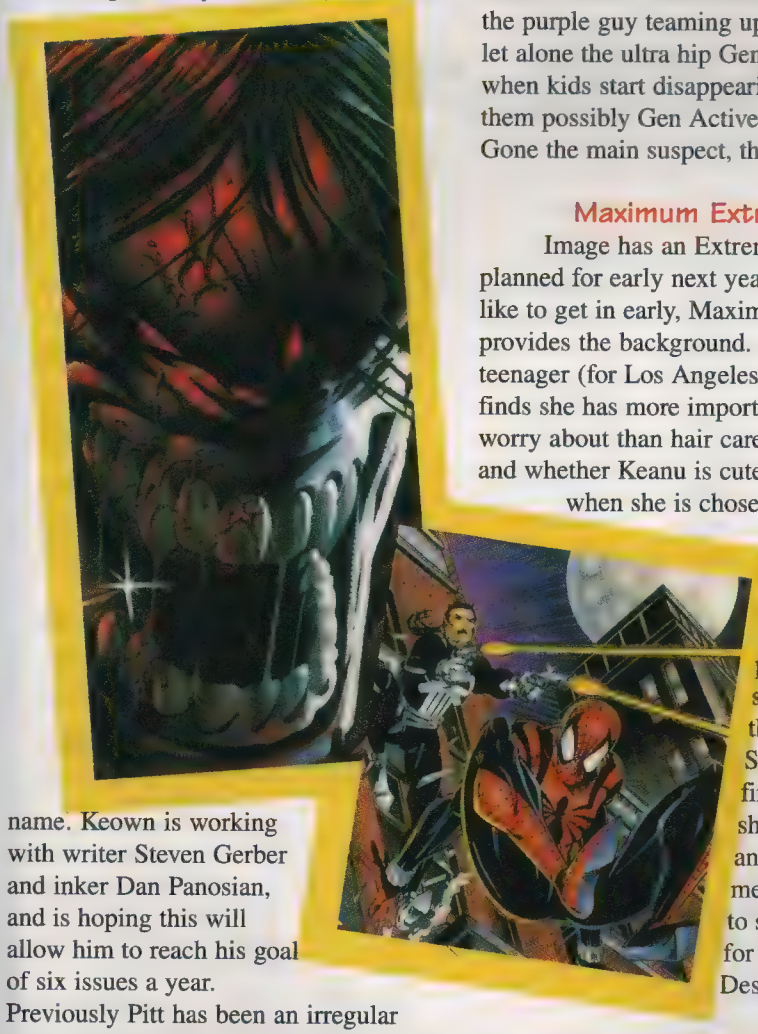
The Pitts

Dale Keown has decided to take his character Pitt out on his own. One of the latecomers to the Image Comics group, Keown has decided it's not for him after all, and will now publish the title independently under the Full Bleed name. Keown is working with writer Steven Gerber and inker Dan Panosian, and is hoping this will allow him to reach his goal of six issues a year.



Previously Pitt has been an irregular title, which Keown says is due to his perfectionism - he won't let the pages out of his studio until he is completely happy with them.

The rescheduled Pitt #1/2 will be issued shortly, with #10 following in January, and there are plans for a crossover with the creature that previously kept Keown's pen busy, Marvel's Hulk, next year. Also early next year, we may be seeing the much promised CD of Pitt's theme music from Keown's band, Pitt Crew.

Maxximum Talent Line-Up

The Gen13/Maxx crossover out this month had input from plenty of image talent. The plot is by regular Maxx scripter Bill Messner-Loebs, but of course Jim Lee and Sam Kieth also got a say, not to mention Brandon Choi, J Scott Campbell and what sounds like a list of everyone at Wildstorm, right down to the guy who makes the tea. Seems hard to imagine the purple guy teaming up with anyone, let alone the ultra hip Gen13 team, but when kids start disappearing, one of them possibly Gen Active, with Mr Gone the main suspect, the scene is set.

Maximum Extreme

Image has an Extreme crossover planned for early next year, but if you'd like to get in early, Maximage #1 provides the background. A regular teenager (for Los Angeles anyway) finds she has more important things to worry about than hair care products and whether Keanu is cuter than Brad when she is chosen by a dead guy from Easter Island to be the most powerful sorcerer on the planet. She needs to find out why she was chosen and what it means in order to set the scene for Extreme Destroyer.

Spider-Man/Punisher

They've met up before, but not quite in their current incarnations. This time Frank Castle has been given the job of taking out Spidey for good or meeting the same fate himself. But the Punisher doesn't like the idea, and may have to come up with another solution. Both instalments of this two parter should be available this month, so you won't be kept in suspense for too long.

Stormin' Woman

The X-Men do occasionally get to do something on their own, and this month it's Storm's turn. In the first part of a four part mini series she is charged with rescuing a young mutant from Candra, who has already wreaked havoc in the Rogue mini series. Another X-Man striking out on his own this month is Wolverine, who was previously known as Logan. Logan #1 is the earliest Logan story to be told yet, and will reveal things only hinted at in other Wolverine stories.

In Black & White

Black and white comics are usually associated with small independent publishers, but this month Archangel is giving it a whirl in a one shot by Peter Milligan and Steve Lightle. Also joining the ranks of the black and whites are the Elfquest titles. Although originally in black and white, Warp Graphics have been shipping the titles in colour six weekly for some time now. They will now go monthly in black and white at a cheaper cover price. Although this would appear to be a defensive move in an increasingly fragmented market under pressure from (still) rising production costs, publisher Richard Pini reckons readers care most about the stories, and that many artists like having their work simple and uncomplicated by colour. Hardback collections will continue to be in colour.

Christmas Wrapup

There are a few Christmas specials being issued, such as the Spider-Man Holiday Special 1995, The Glory Christmas Special and Itchy & Scratchy's Holiday Hijinks Special, but for the most part it seems publishers are just re-issuing trade paperbacks, special collections and boxed sets. Some of them are definitely worth picking up, especially if you missed out on them in comic form.

What Make A Collectible Collectible?

The first ingredient is rarity, or limited production. What all collectibles have in common is that there are a limited number of any one item available. Some things are made to be rare, with others it is a by-product of their use. Chippendale only made so many of his now famous antique chairs before he died, coins that went out of circulation were destroyed, and no two original paintings are alike - they are all made in the ultimate limited edition of one. But many of what we now call collectibles started off life as something functional which have only become rare as a secondary consequence of their use. Postage stamps are a common item, but after they have served their purpose they are usually thrown away, so each edition, although produced in huge numbers, becomes rarer.

But what makes these things truly collectible is their desirability. There are plenty of objects which only exist in limited numbers, but because no one wants them, they are not collectible. Most of last week's newspapers, for example, have been thrown out, but nobody is keen to own yesterdays news, so they're not going to pay good money for it. Unless of course something significant happened last week which will take its place in World History. Then in 20 years time they might purchase the same newspaper and happily pay 50 times the original cover price. The same used to apply to stamps; it was not until the hobby of stamp collecting caught on that they became desirable and were viewed as collectors items.

What is it that makes something desirable? Often it is fashion. Van Gogh was reduced to trading his paintings for art supplies in his lifetime because they weren't fashionable. Now art collectors and museums pay millions of dollars for them. The same applies to such collectibles as china and jewellery. Certain styles of china may sit in junk shops for years before becoming fashionable again. But once people have caught on, everyone wants a piece. That's when they realise there aren't as many available as are wanted, and consequently the price goes up. Often the driving force behind a fashion is nostalgia. "We used to have one just like it when I was growing up" people might say of their favourite collectibles. Something about them evokes an era. For this reason, some mighty strange things become collectible. The seats from old baseball parks, spaceman drink bottles, even ice cream cup lids printed with images of film stars.

So how does all this affect trading cards?

Trading cards in their earliest forms were simply a gimmick to sell products, and were produced in large numbers. People would keep buying a particular brand in order to finish off their set, but there was no inherent value in them at all. As they got thrown away, used for dart practise, coasters, or to stop the table from wobbling, they became rarer. When people began to get nostalgic about them, they became more valuable, some of them very valuable indeed. But what about today's trading cards? They are issued not as an incentive to buy a product, but as the product itself. Many people expect that the cards they are buying are an "investment" which will automatically rise in value, without taking into account the factors that cause the values of collectibles to rise.

For a start there is the numbers the cards are produced in. Few manufacturers give details of print runs, and this is often because they are huge. Notable exceptions to this are Pinnacle and most Australian manufacturers, all of whom have much smaller print runs than the major American manufacturers. While it is true that there were huge print runs when cards were sold with other products, because many non collectors bought those products and threw the cards away, they still became rare. These days, virtually everyone who buys cards considers themselves a collector. They keep their cards, and they keep them in better condition than people did a few years ago.

As for the fashion or nostalgia associated with cards, this is even more difficult to predict. Is this year's Rookie of the Year going to take his place in the Hall of Fame? No-one knows. You may collect all of their cards and find that their career fades out to obscurity. Or you may discount a total unknown who goes on to have a cumulatively outstanding career that makes them a household name long after they are retired. As for nostalgia, it is hard to predict, but does go in cycles. The new generation of card collectors have sparked some memories for older collectors, who have dragged out their old footy cards for their kids to look at, and found themselves caught up in it again. Now they're trying to complete those old sets, forcing up the prices of cards they once considered worthless junk.

What we're really saying here is that it is virtually impossible to predict what will be considered "collectible" in the long term, but if you collect what you have a passion for, you will always be able to look back on your collection with pride. And then if it becomes a hot item 20 years down the track, you will have a true collectible that has risen in value. If you can bear to part with it, then of course!

CRAZY CRITIC

Fleer Ultra NBA 95/96 Series One

of cards: 200
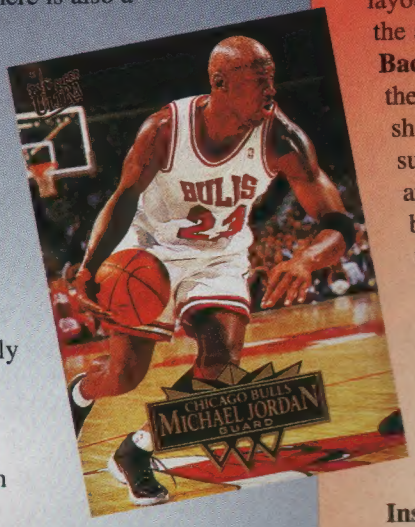
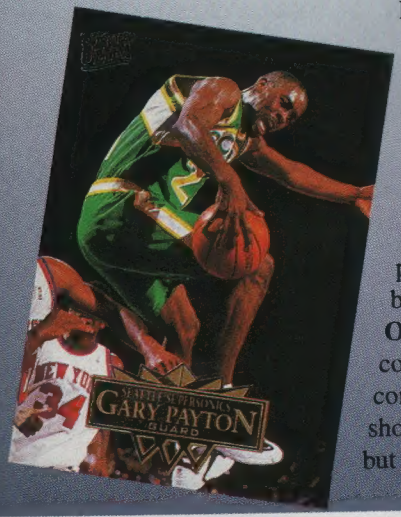
Fronts: UV coated full bleed shots of main player in action. Lovely gold foil stamping of team, player and position plus the Ultra logo in the top corner. There is also a parallel set, "Gold Medallion Edition" with embossed gold foil backgrounds (one in each pack).



Backs: Not one, but two colour photographs with fuzzed edges, team logo and stats. All this is printed on a silver/white action photo.
Photo selection: Quite a range of different action shots, with the only similarity being the silly looks on all their faces - but that's a good thing, they're concentrating!
Player Selection: Good selection with all the main players.
Subsets: Arranged into team subsets with lots of teams.
Inserts: Lots of inserts to collect; Ultra Power (10), Double Trouble (10), Fabulous Fifties (7), Rising Stars (9), Rookie teams (10), All-NBA (15).



Quality: Nice and solid, "all cards 40% thicker!" the box claims.
Packaging: 12 cards per pack, 36 packs per box.
Overall: It might take a couple of boxes to gain a complete set (we fell short by around 15 cards), but they are well worth it.

Futera Australian Formula One Grand Prix 1995

of Cards: 90
Fronts: All the cards are presented in landscape to accommodate the photos of the cars. There is a different layout format for each subset. A purple border surrounds the action.
Backs: Again the format changes with each subset but they generally have textured backgrounds and cropped shots of drivers or in the case of the "Adelaide Alive" subset, another full sized action shot. The comments are lively and informative and contain some excellent background information on drivers, manufacturers and the like.
Photo Selection: The photography is surprisingly clear considering that most of the action is taking place at 170 kph. Good to see the guys behind the scenes - the pit crew and close ups of the drivers.
Subsets: 5 subsets in all - Adelaide Grand Prix Legends, Grand Prix Teams, Adelaide Alive 85-94, F1 Car Profiles, and Rising Stars.
Inserts: Fastest Laps (1:6), Pole Position (1:10), and Winner Exchange Card (1:128). From the box we opened we got 5 Fastest Laps and 2 Pole Position cards.
Packaging: 9 cards per pack, 40 packs per box.
Overall: The perfect way to remember the Adelaide GP with excellent action shots, expert comments and a wide cross section of the GP covered in the subsets. Collation was fair with 2 full sets but we were a little short on the inserts. Sad to see the Adelaide go, but at least you can look back through the cards.

Gen[13] Chromium by Image

of cards: 107
Fronts: Nice pictures, nice colours, a good selection of different pictures, borderless.
Backs: A small passport photo size picture and some text that is relevant to the particular subset. The text is helpful and interesting for the unacquainted. Some of the backdrops (different for each subset) are very nice.
Artwork selection: Some excellent artwork by top artists including Jim Lee, J. Scott Campbell, Whilce Portacio... too many to mention here!
Subsets: Heroes and Villains gives a brief introduction to the, um, Heroes and Villains. Sketchbook introduces characters in the up-coming movie. Alternate costumes, Alternate Reality and Swimsuits prove the artists can draw the characters in more than just their normal costume, Battle pits heroes and villains against one another, then there is a most interesting subset, "A Day at the Mall" is a mini comic strip story. There is also Gen[13] history and Gen[13] Gallery. Phew!
Inserts: Gen-Active motion cards (excellent) - 1:8, and Glow-in-the-Dark (okay) - 1:6, nine of each.

Quality: Relatively thick card stock, nice cards, although if I was to nit-pick, I'd say a couple of our "A Day at the Mall" cards were slightly off-centre.
Packaging: 7 cards a pack; 24 packs in a box - we think. We had to go though our bin to recover the packets and count them because we discovered it's not printed on the box!
Overall: Pretty cool card set, - I might go and buy the latest Gen[13] comic now...

Upper Deck 95/96 Series 1 NBA Basketball

of cards: 180
Fronts: Full bleed, Gold foil Upper Deck logo at top left, Gold foil name bottom centre. Excellent action shots, with the odd "novelty shot".
Backs: Another borderless photo on the back, either an action shot, out of action shot, or some pose. Stats start from '91. No text.
Photo selection: The usual range of action shots, a few unusual ones and a couple that I found quite hilarious.
Subsets: Of all the cards that had to go missing, it had to be the checklist card! Grrr!! So, doing it manually, there appears to be a very large main set, then "The Rookie Years" contains photos of main players during, funnily enough, their Rookie years. First team and second team rookies, then first, second and third team NBA. Then the elusive checklist. But wait, there's more! A parallel set of silver "Electric Court" (2:1) and gold "Electric Court" (1:35).
Inserts: All-Star Class(1:15), Jordan Collection(1:30) and Retail Predictor (1:17).
Quality: No qualms here, excellent quality. Decent thickness without overdoing it.
Packaging: 12 cards per pack, 36 packs per box.
Overall: Hard core collectors may be more than a little annoyed at the parallel sets, but apart from that, this set is excellent. There may be a little bias in that, they won me over when three packs into the box, I opened a Hot Pack!
